DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3, 12-14, 18 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Carey, et al (3,586,347).

Carey, et al teaches an airbag comprising an inflatable cushion 13 made from a first material having an inflator opening 25; a baffle 30 having a second material; a baffle opening, wherein the opening is aligned with at least one-third of the inflator opening and the opening has an area at least one-half of the area of the inflator opening. The baffle opening is aligned with approximately one-half of the inflator opening and; the baffle opening has an area that is approximately double the area of the inflator opening, as shown in Figure 4. The baffle opening is disposed in the baffle so that a portion of the inflation gas passes through the baffle opening without contacting the baffle. The baffle opening is disposed in the baffle so that the baffle has no influence on the deployment trajectory of the airbag.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3618

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 4-5, 10, 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Carey, et al (3,586,347) in view of Nelson, et al (6,283,499).

Carey, et al discloses the claimed invention except for a heat shield. Nelson, et al teaches a heat shield (See Col. 3, lines 2-5) having an inflator opening (See Col. 5, lines 25-27), also shown in Figure 1. The heat shield is made from a material different from that comprising the inflatable cushion (See Col. 5, lines 47-57). The heat shield is attached to the baffle. The baffle and the heat shield of Nelson, et al is made from a coated woven nylon fabric (See Col. 5, lines 47-51). The heat shield is attached to baffle by using double needle chain stitch 6, the stitching is approximately 10mm from the edge of the heat shield. Based on the teachings of Nelson, et al, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the airbag of Carey, et al to include a heat shield to protect the airbag.

5. Claims 6-9 and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Carey, et al (3,586,347) in view of Taguchi, et al (5,913,535).

Carey, et al discloses the claimed invention except for the two baffle openings having an oval or circular shape located in the upper section of the baffle. Taguchi, et al discloses an airbag comprising a baffle 22 having two openings 22a of oval and circular shape located in the upper section of the baffle. Based on the teachings of Taguchi, et al, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the baffle openings of Carey, et al to include the two baffle openings having an oval or circular shape located in the upper section of the baffle to control the air pressure of the airbag and; since increasing the amount of openings, changing the shape and the location of the openings would not change the function of the device and making the above changes for suitability of intended use would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-19 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
